Permission to Be Asked for Skating at Forest Theater

Great sakes of drama! Carmel's famous Forest Theater may be turned into a skating rink.

At least a request to use the stage of the theater for the purpose will probably be made to directors of the Forest Theater association sometime next week. Permission to use the stage is to be made on behalf of Carmel youngsters who have no place, except the down-town district in which to skate.

According to those behind the movement, the Forest Theater stage when not in use for theatrical purposes makes an ideal skating rink. Together with the request for use of the stage, they will ask the directors for permission to construct a fence around it, so there will be no danger of the youngsters falling off.

The Forest Theater during eight months of the year is used for practically no other purpose. Last year, directors of the organization discussed the matter of making it into temporary tennis courts to be used during the time when no theatrical performances were contemplated.

No official action, however, was taken by the directors and the matter was dropped. At that time, none of the directors were in opposition to the plan and it is felt that they will not protest the request to use the stage for skating.

Because of the fact that only a few streets in the village are paved, Carmel youngsters, it is pointed out, are handicapped in enjoying a popular sport. Skating in the business district in addition to interfering with pedestrians and traffic would be hazardous for the youngsters.

Employment Commission Asks for Help

The Carmel Employment Commission met on Monday evening to discuss the very immediate problem confronting them—that of finding money enough to tide them over the coming weeks.

With fifty men, most of them with dependents and all residents of Carmel, the money so generously given by Carmel residents, the Community Chest and the Red Cross is running low, and the Commission is faced with the question as to how to carry on this necessary program of giving employment without imposing too greatly upon Carmel's generosity.

The need is very great and it is a problem that must be solved by us as a community. The Commission is merely the agency through which your money may go to those whose need is the greatest.

If there are those who can help either by donations of money or by creating work they will be helping towards the meeting of this problem.

Rev. Austin B. Chinn, President; Mrs. Joseph Schoeninger, Vice-President; Mrs. Howard Hatton, Secretary; Rev. Harold Grimshaw, Treasurer; Mrs. John Nye, Mrs. R. J. Hart, Mrs. Karl Ohnesorg, Miss Clara Kellogg, Mr. Robert Parrott, Mr. Tom Phillips, Mr. Edward Taylor, Mrs. Ann Hayford, Dr. Amelia Gates.

Star Spangled Banner Goes Astray on Lincoln's Birthday

An American flag, that floated proudly in front of the Fee building on Ocean avenue on national holidays for years, was absent from the line-up on Washington's Birthday. It had fluttered its patriotism in commemoration of the birth of Lincoln, ten days before, but disappeared that night. It has never been found.

Whether some one, in a mistaken idea of patriotism, carried away the banner, or whether it was merely stolen, is not known, but it is hoped that this notice of its loss will help in its return to the owners. Any information of its present whereabouts will be gladly received at the office of the Monterey Bay Realty Co. in the Fee building.

Abalone League To Hold Meeting Shortly

Preparations for the 1932 season of the Carmel Abalone baseball League are now being made and the first game will be held within the next two weeks, according to officials of the organization.

This is the latest time the season has gotten underway, but the delay has been due to bad weather. It is believed that within a short time, the weather will be fair enough to permit the continuation of the regular Sunday baseball games which have become an important part of the sport activities of the village.

Driver to Face Court Over Killing Animal

L. M. Rhodes, Monterey accountant, who last week plead guilty and was fined $20 as the result of running over a dog belonging to Frederick Search, local musician, will face new charges Monday morning before Police Judge Richard Hoagland.

Rhodes is scheduled to be tried on an accusation brought against him by the Monterey society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. This latter charge was lodged against him following the death of Search's dog. He will be prosecuted by Argyll Campbell, deputy district attorney.

Local Resident Not Man Hurt in Crash

Robert Norton, Carmel real estate agent was this week being congratulated for having escaped without any injuries in an auto crash last Sunday night in San Francisco. Norton did not object to the well wishes, but was not the man involved in the auto accident.

An investigation disclosed that the man injured while being named Robert Norton was not the Carmel resident. Nevertheless, the injured Norton is well known in Carmel and is a former football player.

Small Chimney Blaze Brings Out Firemen

A small chimney blaze at the home of Dorothy Dobrzensky brought out the Carmel fire department this last week-end and quick work on their part resulted in extinguishing it before any damage resulted. The house is located at Eleventh and Dolores.

The occupant of the house at the time of the fire was Mrs. J. N. Morse. A defective flue was believed by Fire Chief Robert Leidig to have been responsible for the blaze.

Carmel Dairy to Occupy New Ocean Avenue Building

Carmel's business district is to have a handsome new store building shortly when the plumbing establishment of Thomas B. Reardon at Ocean avenue and Mission street gives place to a modern two-story structure to be occupied by the Carmel Dairy.

The building to be erected by T. B. Reardon will be on the northwest corner of the streets, and will have its side toward the beautified Devendorf Park, overlooking it with wide, arched windows. The type of architecture is Spanish, the plans having been made by Guy Koepp. The structure will have frontage of 25 feet on Ocean avenue and 90 feet on Mission street.

The second story will have either offices or apartments. The Carmel Dairy will occupy all the ground floor and a mezzanine with its business of milk distribution and pasteurization, its lunch room and soda water counters. The building should be ready for occupancy about the first of June.

Manzanita Club Party For Unemployed Aid

A card party will be given next Thursday night, March 3rd at the Manzanita Club. Tickets will be on sale at all the stores and there will be valuable prizes for the games. This will be given to raise money for the almost depleted fund for the Employment Commission and a large attendance is hoped for.

One Correspondent Confesses the Embarrassment of New Shoes

Every time we get a new pair of shoes we find some reason to visit the library. Fortunately, prices are not always so low that we can afford new shoes, but right now with all these sales we just can't wear the old ones until they resemble yesterday's mush. Also fortunately, the seat of our pants usually wears out the fastest, for all, new breeches don't squeak much.

Colorful Kite Flying Contest Reveals Skill of Youngsters

Carmel's annual kite flying tournament staged last Monday afternoon, brought out some three thousand spectators and about 250 youngsters and adults who participated with all types and varieties of kites, but without wind enough to pull off the main contest.

This year's tournament given in the lower end of Hatton Fields was the most successful event of its kind ever held here. The sky in that section of the village presented a picturesque scene with the brightly colored kites flying in all directions.

The youngsters and other participants in the contest gathered at Sunset school and then led by Police Chief August Englund walked in procession to Hatton Fields. As they passed Carmel Mission, the procession stopped for a minute in memory of Father Serra.

One of the most unique kites ever flown here was the one made by Ernestine Renzel, local rear estate agent. It was the smallest of those flown being not more than two inches in size with a postage stamp for a tail. Yet it went up as well as its bigger brothers.

Those who won prizes were: Edgar Leslie, Jerry Neikirk, Gerald Ray, Rosemarie Mora, Naiga Miamito, Clifford Leneve, Dexter Whitcomb, Mae Reloquie and Alpeggio Regno. Prizes were awarded for the best made kite, the best looking and the oddest. Miss Renzel won a prize for the smallest kite.

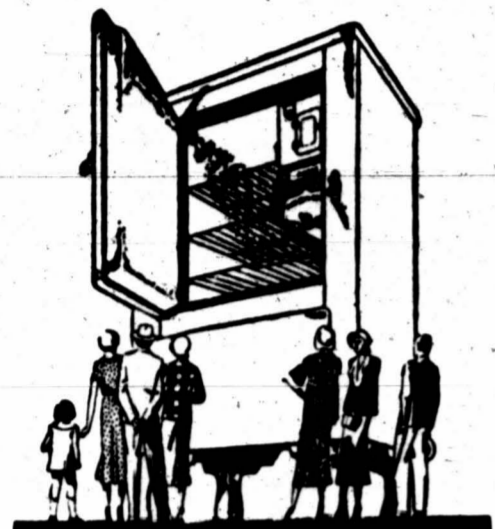

Because of the fact that the wind died down early in the afternoon, it was impossible to compete for the high flying honors. The contest will be held tomorrow afternoon in the same place with prizes to be awarded for the kite that flies the highest and the one that flies the furthest.

J. F. Devendorf, founder of Carmel, who was invited to attend the tournament as guest of honor was unable to come at the last minute. He wrote his regrets to the Rev. Willis White, chairman of the tournament committee and praised the contest as a typical Carmel event.

A committee of more than 40 Carmel residents aided in making the affair a success both in helping the youngsters in building the kites and in sponsoring. The judges of the tournament included Frank P. Howard, John C. Catlin, James Hopper, Daniel W. Willard, N. T. Reynolds, W. W. Wheeler, T. M. Wright, Whitney Palache, Hugh Comstock, Hazel Watrous, Ruth Huntington, Mrs. E. L. Taylor, Mrs. Edgar Hamilton, George Seideneck, the Rev. Austin Chinn, Lincoln Steffens, Fredrik Rum-

NORGE ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

Unless You Can Afford To Experiment . . . See the NORGE Before You Buy

An electric refrigerator is not a casual purchase. You don't expect to trade it in on a new one in a year or two. You expect it to keep on doing its good work indefinitely . . . a lifetime. Norgé is, unquestionably, the lifetime refrigerator. Its cabinet is constructed and finished for endurance. Its design and arrangement is so carefully considered that you'll wonder if it could be improved. And as for the Norgé mechanism—The Rollator—stout heart of the Norgé—is almost everlasting . . . so simple in design that it has but three moving parts. Be sure to see it and the Norgé before you buy.

The Watercooler shown in the model illustrated is extra equipment . . . available with all models.

Eastern Art Journal Has Considerable Carmel News

Several Carmel artists are mentioned in the February number of the American Magazine of Art. There is a reproduction of James Millikan bust with the caption, "Austin James' portrait of Dr. Robert A. Millikan was exhibited last year at the Paris Salon and has now been given a permanent placement in the Sorbonne."

"Luis Mora of New York well known for his paintings, illustrations, drawings and prints, is spending the winter at Carmel with his brother Jo Mora who has attained distinction as a sculptor and among whose works are several heroic bronzes on the estate of E. W. Marland, Ponca City, Oklahoma, as well as a lately completed sundial for the Arlington Elementary School in San Jose. Luis Mora has himself lately taken to sculpture and has produced a most interesting group of statuette Indians in colored porcelain to be exhibited in California early in the year and later to be shown in Museums in the East."

"Celia Seymour of Carmel has lately painted a portrait of Otis Skinner as Kismet, an excellent likeness and striking characterization."

"Carmel, being essentially an artists' colony has distinguished artists serving on several of its municipal boards, two of whom have lately assisted in drawing up and presenting to the City Fathers an attractive scheme for the re-planning of Carmel's streets and driveways, obviating the gridiron pattern."

Change of Bank Control Interests Local Man

In addition to local stockholders, there was one Carmel resident in particular, who cheered when A. P. Giannini again took over control of Transamerica.

Not only is Joe Cuneo of Carmel, a nephew of Giannini but during the past few months, he has been touring all sections of the state obtaining proxies. It was the large number of proxies signed up which finally resulted in Wall street receiving one of the worst defeats since the day Henry Ford thrashed it.

Joe Cuneo is identified with the Giannini interests in more than one way. When Giannini quit the commission business in San Francisco and decided to start the nucleus of what was to become the Bank of Italy, he went to one person for advice and financial support.

That person was Joe Cuneo's grandfather, who for years was one of the original directors of the company. Many of the financial battles that Giannini was to later stage, were first discussed with him.

It was consequently that Cuneo watched Giannini's victory last week with more than just passing interest. His uncle was again at the helm of one of the largest banking companies of its kind in the world.

Del Monte Polo

Word has been received that Midwick, Santa Barbara and the Hurricanes will definitely be on hand for the Pacific Coast Open polo championship. Due to get under way Sunday at the Del Monte polo field, the Open will witness at least six crack teams in action. They are, besides the above, Cypress Point, San Carlos and the Del Monte Rangers.

High-goal poloists go to work Sunday with the opening of the featured Pacific Coast Open championship.

Sanford's Hurricanes present what is perhaps the strongest team in the west. Winners of last year's Open and recent victors in the Santa Barbara high-goal handicap, the hard-riding four comes well loaded with tricks. It boasts such veterans as Pete Bostwick, champion gentleman rider, Captain C. T. I. Roark, 10-tally Britisher and Lin Howard, riding again after his southern spill.

The Pointers come well-heeled too, with the tough Captain Selby McCreery, Ed Baldwin from Honolulu. W. W. Crocker and the superb player, Eric Tyrrell-Martin.

Sunday's game should provide a host of thrills and an enthusiastic crowd is expected to gallery the hostilities which get under way at 2:30 P. M.

The championship games will continue until March 12.

No. 12911 IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA. IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF MONTEREY.

CHARLES DELOS CURTIS, also known as DELOS CURTIS, and CATHERINE MORE CURTIS, sometimes called CATHERINE CURTIS, as JOINT TENANTS, PLAINTIFFS

LULU ABREGO, and also all other persons unknown, claiming any title, right, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the COMPLAINT, adverse to Plaintiff's ownership, or any cloud upon Plaintiff's title thereto, DEFENDANTS.

SUMMONS

ACTION brought in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Monterey, and COMPLAINT filed in the office of the Clerk of said Monterey County.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA SEND GREETINGS TO LULU ABREGO, and also all other persons unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the COMPLAINT adverse to Plaintiff's ownership, or any cloud upon Plaintiff's title thereto, DEFENDANTS.

YOU are hereby directed to appear and answer the COMPLAINT in an action entitled as above brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Monterey, within ten (10) days after service upon you of this SUMMONS, if served within this County; or within Thirty (30) days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that unless you so appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiffs will take judgment against you for any money, or damages demanded in the COMPLAINT as arising upon Contract, or will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the COMPLAINT.

The object of this action is to require said Defendants, and each of them, known, or unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the COMPLAINT on file in this cause, and hereinafter described adverse to Plaintiff's ownership thereto, to set forth the nature of their, and each of their claims, and that all adverse claims of said Defendants and each of them may be determined by a DECREE of this Court.

That by said DECREE, it may be adjudged and decreed that the Plaintiffs as JOINT TENANTS, are the owners in fee simple absolute of all the said real property, and that their title is good and valid, and that said Defendants have not, nor have they, or any of them, any estate, right, title, lien or interest in or to said real property, or any part thereof.

And that it be further adjudged and decreed that said Defendant LULU ABREGO, and also all other persons unknown, claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in said COMPLAINT adverse to Plaintiff's ownership, or any cloud upon Plaintiff's title thereto, be forever debarred and estopped from asserting such or any claims in or to such real property, or any part thereof.

All of which is more fully set out in the COMPLAINT to which reference is hereby specially made.

Plaintiffs pray for such other or further relief as to this Court may seem meet and proper.

The real property affected by this action consists of all those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land, lying being and situate in the City of Carmel-by-Sea, County of Monterey, State of California, described as follows, to-wit:

Lot Two (2) in Block Two (2) as shown and delineated on the "Map of Carmel City, Monterey County, Cal.", surveyed by W. C. Little, April 1888", filed May 1st, 1888, in the Office of the County Recorder of the County of Monterey, State of California, and now on file, and of record in said Office in Map Book One, Cities and Towns, at page 52 therein.

Together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in anywise appertaining.

Street Pole Moved to Aid The Carmel "Leaning Tower"

Carmel believes in complying with the whimsical comfort of its elite residents—even when it comes to such measures as moving a corner street pole to aid in holding up the forms of tired, retired business men.

And here hangs the tale of one Herbert John Morse. Since the day Morse left China where he was managing executive of one of the major oil companies to come to Carmel, he selected the corner of San Carlos and Ocean avenue as the ideal location to rest his weary feet.

Every day for three hours, he has spent reclining against the pole which bears the name of the street. Recently, however, Morse came to the realization, that after all, the pole was too far away from the street curb to be comfortable.

He transmitted such information to Don Staniford, who when he isn't conversing with Morse runs the corner drug store.

"I think I'll look for a more comfortable pole," Morse told Staniford.

Staniford threw up his hands. It would indeed be a misfortune to lose this famous leaning tower of Carmel. He would attend to it immediately. Carmel in the first place always pleased the wishes of its residents. Morse comfort must be attended to.

A conference between William Askew, superintendent of streets and Staniford subsequently followed. It finally resulted in having a member of the unemployed group remove the street pole precisely six inches closer to the curb.

When Morse returned to his favorite corner for his three hours of rest yesterday, he discovered the astonishing change. And right there to congratulate him on his new-found comfort was his honor, Mayor Herbert Heron.

Carmel will still keep its leaning tower.

Woman's Club Program

The Garden Section of the Woman's Club will meet at the home of Mrs. R. G. Brooks on Lincoln between 9th and 10th, Thursday morning at 10 a.m. March 3rd. Mrs. Charles Greene will read the paper.

The Book Section will meet at the Girl Scout House on Wednesday morning March 2nd at 10 o'clock.

Carmel Phone Office Plans "Open House"

Carmelites who visit the telephone office on the corner of Dolores and Seventh streets next week will be able to see their own words typed on a teletypewriter and reproduced simultaneously on another teletypewriter a short distance away.

This will be one of the features of an "Open House", which Carmel's telephone men and women have planned for anyone in the city who cares to come.

"The telephone people who serve Carmel and vicinity issue the invitation to become better acquainted with telephone users, and to point out the part telephone service takes in assuring the progress of the community," said R. P. Sexton, manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

Telephone men and women will be on hand from 1 P.M. to 9 P.M. every day from Tuesday to Thursday inclusive to receive visitors. A personal inspection of the central office enables the visitors to gain a totally new conception of telephone service. In addition to personally conducted visits through the operating and equipment rooms, employees will explain the purpose and operation of various equipment which is on display in the building.

This is addressed more especially to some young couple who should own their home

Don't let Fear travel with you! Fear, and the undue desire to spend for luxuries, have kept many a family from owning their own home.

The owner of this property wants his equity in cash, but the balance of the purchase price may be carried like rent.

This quaint, roomy, sunny house of two bedrooms, livingroom with fireplace, ample kitchen, bath, garage, has a number of practical values, and the other kinds also.

Centrally situated, level short walk to Post Office, yet the windows look out through the property's own pine trees, to a most lovely view of Point Lobos.

Furniture remains in the house.

To appraise: lot $1200., duplicating house $4000., Furniture $400. Total $5600. A saving and a profit reselling of $2100.

Rental interest of 10% net to be had on this property on yearly rental basis or around 15% net on a month to month rental basis

Engineer Making Estimate of Carmel Street Plan Project

Carmel property will within the next three or four weeks definitely know how much each individual lot will be assessed for the proposed Carmel Street Plan.

According to Mayor Herbert Heron, H. F. Cozzens, in the capacity of city engineer, is now drawing up an approximate estimate of how much it will cost to put the plan through and the assessment on the various lots.

When Cozzens completes the estimate, postal cards will be sent to every property owner in Carmel, Mayor Heron said. The property owners will then have an opportunity to either protest the project or approve it. A 50 per cent protest, Heron said, would legally kill the project for the present time.

No definite price has been set on how much the engineer is to be paid for making the estimate. Mayor Heron, however, said he was positive it would not cost more than $150. It will take from three to four weeks to complete.

Mayor Heron said that the matter of the street plan is closed as far as he is concerned until the estimate figures of the engineer are available.

"Members of the council and I have discussed the plan thoroughly and feel that this estimate of price must be obtained before any further steps are taken," Mayor Heron said. "There has been considerable opposition to the project apparent. We do not want to appear as attempting to thrust this project down the property owner's throats if they do not want it."

"After all, the members of the council are put in office to follow out the requests of the residents as a whole. We believe the project is a sound one and one that is most necessary for the future welfare of Carmel. If the majority of property don't want it—that's their lookout. At least the members of the council will have tried to follow out the duties of their respective positions."

The council will meet again next Wednesday at the regular monthly session, but Mayor Heron said, no discussion will be had on the street plan project, although residents and property owners interested in the matter, will have the privilege to address the board.

There will probably be no more meetings similar to the one held last week in discussion of the project, until the estimate of the engineer has been submitted to the council.

Village Filled with Out-of-town Visitors

One of the largest crowds ever to come to Carmel over a holiday period, filled this last weekend all hotels to capacity, while dozens of cottages in every section of the village were rented.

La Ribera, Pine Inn, La Playa and Carmel Highlands, all reported practically every room taken. In many instances, guests had to be turned away. Traffic on the main streets was heavy and necessitated constant police patrol.

The beach was covered with bathers. Clear fair weather, with plenty of sunshine was believed responsible for the huge crowd.

Buddy and Jane Henley were down from San Francisco over the holidays as guests of Mrs. John Dresser and her daughters.

in the Scottish Rite Temple in that city, which covered a three days' program.

Fishy? No, It's True! Small Fish Brings Fame to Savant

Ever hear of a man spending twelve years to catch the smallest fish in the world?

Sounds like a fish story—doesn't it? Yet it's the truth. For the man who caught it, Dr. Albert Herre, Stanford university savant was in Carmel this week and addressed last night an open meeting of the Women's club forum held at the Sunset school auditorium.

In his talk here, Dr. Herre discussed divers matters. But he did not reveal to the audience that he is nationally famous for catching this tiny aquatic animal which formed the object for many years of patient fishing.

This noted catch was so minute it took a compound microscope to even get a good look at it. It was a member of the Goby family and was found one bright morning in a certain stretch of waters in the Philippine Islands where Dr. Herre, then director of fisheries for the Philippine government was in quest of other sea animals. It was such an important discovery that Dr. Herre later wrote several volumes on the subject!

Dr. Herre is probably the leading fish authority in the country today, and revealed some interesting things during his visit here. For example:

1. There are no lobsters in the markets on the Pacific coast, nor can you purchase a fresh lobster unless it's brought from the Atlantic side. What is sold on the coast and eaten in all the restaurants is known as the spiny marine ray-fish.

2. The best way to eat a lobster is the manner in which the Japanese prepare it. That's fried.

3. The finest flavored fish in the world is the sword-fish—this conclusion after having tasted almost every edible fish in existence.

4. The Philippine Islands is one of the greatest places in the world to study fish. In one day a fellow scientist of Dr. Herre found 250 species of fish—a number which would take possibly an entire year to discover in the United States.

Dr. Herre entered Stanford university to become a disciple of the late Dr. David Starr Jordan, himself a noted authority on fish. After graduation, Dr. Herre became a scientific instructor. But academic life did not appeal to him and he succumbed to the mysteries of nature—his work taking him to many remote corners of the world.

The popular idea that life in the jungle is a terrific hardship is a delusion that is spread by writers in popular magazines who attempt to make their efforts heroic in exploration articles, Dr. Herre claims. He has lived and traveled for months at a time in many of the most inaccessible and wildest part of the East Indies where few outsiders penetrate and where conditions are very primitive.

"Not once have I suffered any particular hardships," Dr. Herre declares. "Hiking many hours in tropical rainstorms or traversing the jungle where one must use a creek bed as a trail for half a day at a time is not always pleasant, but not worse than the thorny chaparral on some California mountain."

"I have never seen anything worse in the jungle than the poison oak or poison ivy in many parts of the United States. The jungles of Borneo, Mindanao or Palawan are neither dangerous nor unhealthful to anyone of robust physique, sound digestion and good common sense. There is no reason why anyone cannot be as well and strong in the tropics as anywhere else."

Dr. Herre was brought to Carmel through the efforts of the Women's club which has already presented several other prominent speakers to local audiences.

Many Mourn Passing of Former Carmel Leader

Amid massed blossoms and with the singing of birds at the Little Church of the Flowers at Hollywood, the last rites were held for Sara Deming last Friday afternoon. All that was mortal of that courageous, ascendant and ever optimistic spirit was laid in its last resting place. In the hearts of thousands who knew her and loved her, she will ever remain a dominant memory.

During the several years of her residence in Carmel she made an important place for herself in the community through her willingness to do, and the ability to succeed in her undertakings. Great minded and with remarkable vitality, she accepted responsibilities to accomplish their achievement. She had a consistent record of success in the various important positions that were thrust upon her.

Sara Deming was president of the Arts & Crafts, president of the Forest Theater Society, and prominent in all social community life. She was a leader of men and women loved to follow and assist. She planned coolly and thoroughly, organized ably, and then did a full share of the work to be done. She had all the qualities of leadership without the disadvantages of the dictator.

During the World War, she managed the American officers' club, Washington Inn, on St. James Square, London, for the Y.M.C.A. This place became world famous because of her personality and abilities. Homesick, war-sick officers of our army and navy made it their revitalizing depot, and many hundreds of them will carry the memory of her smiling face and inspiring words as long as they live. When, at the time of the armistice, lack of funds would have caused the closing of the club, Sara Deming took on the financial responsibility, and operated it upon a paying basis for another year, or until the American troops had all been withdrawn from Europe.

There is a valley in Arizona which, on the maps of that state, is named Sara Deming Canyon, a tribute to the courage and venturesome spirit of the woman. She, with an escort of cowboys, explored it during her first stay in its neighborhood. Trails were afterwards cut, and the beauties of the valley opened to other visitors to the state, but it will always bear her name as its discoverer.

Many Carmel people feel in her loss the sorrow of the passing of a dear friend and associate of strength and wisdom. She will be mourned here.

Impressive Military Funeral For General W. S. Schuyler

Impressive military ceremonies at the Presidio of San Francisco last Saturday marked the last tribute to Brigadier General Walter S. Schuyler, USA, retired, who died suddenly at Letterman General Hospital, Presidio, Wednesday night.

At 7:30 a.m., one hour after reveille, solemn mourning guns were fired at half-hour intervals until 2:00 p.m., the hour of the funeral.

The funeral procession formed at the Lombard street gate of the reservation at 1:40 p.m., when the casket was placed on a black-draped artillery caisson. Heading the procession was the 30th Infantry Band and one company of riflemen, while on each side of the caisson marched the following honorary pallbearers:

Brigadier General James H. Reeves, USA., Colonel William D. Chitty, Retired, Colonel T. M. Coughlan, Cavalry, Colonel Edward P. O'Hern, Ordnance, Colonel D. W. Hand, Field Artillery, Colonel Albert B. Dockery, Cavalry, Lieut. Colonel Jerome K. Pillow, Cavalry, Lieut. Colonel Arthur H. Wilson, Cavalry.

Immediately behind the caisson came the active pallbearers, and then the traditional black caparisoned officer's charger, with boots reversed in the stirrups.

Funeral services were held at the Presidio Chapel at 2:00 p.m. and were conducted by Chaplain George F. Rixey, USA.

Interment will be made at Arlington Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

Carmel Telephone Office Leads in Expansion

Carmel's telephone central office has just put six years of history behind it.

In that time, the local exchange has led for the last two years all other exchanges in central California in the percentage of new telephones installed. There are now 1666 telephones in actual use in the village where not so many years ago, only five or ten were in operation.

In tracing back the expansion of the telephone service in Carmel, Robert P. Sexton, peninsula manager, revealed today that the first subscriber to Carmel telephone service was J. F. Devendorf, the founder of Carmel whose name has been given to the city's new park.

Devendorf first thought of founding Carmel in 1900, as he stood on Pescadero Point, marveling at the landscape. He traded some of his Santa Clara county property for that part of Carmel facing the ocean. Telephone service, according to Sexton, prior to the establishing of the Carmel central office, was furnished through suburban lines connected with the Monterey office.

The central office was opened in Carmel in 1926. Where at one time only two operators were employed, there are seven now at work. Miss Margaret Perry, has been chief operator of the Carmel office since it was established.

Devendorf Park Takes on Beauty of Tree and Plant

Devendorf Park is rapidly assuming form as the laborers, employed by the Carmel Employment Commission, under the direction of Ansel Gard, carry forward the plans donated by Mrs. Van Pelt for the beautification of this city-owned block in Carmel's business center. Mrs. James Hopper, who was largely instrumental in developing the project, is well pleased with the work accomplished and Wednesday, March 2, is the last day that people may register, who wish to vote at the City Election, held this year on April 11. At this time there will be chosen, two Councillors, a City Clerk, and a City Treasurer. Don't miss your chance to vote because you failed to register.

gives time each day to its superintendence.

A striking feature of the work is the rock paved stream that flows through the block, close to its eastern boundary. An arched bridge of rock spans this natural waterway leading from Junipero street. In that corner, there is being built a rock garden, with a pool with mossy edges.

Along the little creek are planted iris, lilies and wild ferns, while the pool will be shaded by willows and trees that blossom. A sun patio, reached by stone steps, is another feature of the plan. An artistic rock sidewalk is building on the Ocean avenue front of the block.

The underground system of water pipes is placed to give facility to the irrigation of the grass, flowers and shrubs. Hardy plants and trees, mostly of the flowering kind, with a great deal of heather, make the project an easy one to be cared for.

Many Carmelites have donated plants and trees to add beauty to the plan, while the foundation for the improvement was a fund subscribed by the town at the behest of Mrs. James Hopper.

Audience in Intoxicated Glee Tends Bar to "The Drunkard"

"The Drunkard," his knees wobbling, his breath reeking with pre-prohibition fumes, walked brazenly up and down the Denny-Watrous gallery stage over the week-end to extol the evils of alcoholic indulgence on an eager audience.

Amidst jeers and cheers, this old melodrama went through its many scenes with the same realism that must have marked the production when it was first presented by Barnum in New York. It is typical dry propaganda of the early days and its moral lessons are strong enough to produce delirium tremens in the most Volsteadian advocate.

Oddly enough, in the audience, rubbing shoulders with a prominent member of the Pacific Grove W.C.T.U., was an equally prominent peninsula bootlegger. The "white ribbon" lady laughed and applauded. The bootlegger's fat face was moistened by a few sorrowing tears. Perhaps, he was thinking, how much business he would lose if this production continued.

"The Drunkard" has everything to make it live up to its name. It surpasses in many instances "Ten Nights in a Barroom" although both are more or less of the same order. The audience was not to be outdone by the fine acting, for they too participated, stamping their feet, jeering when the villain entered and cheering when the hero came to the rescue. Scheduled for only three performances, the play drew such large crowds that it was repeated again on Monday night. It was apparently a success both for its theatrical technique as well as from the boxoffice point of view.

The part of the drunkard was played by Samuel Ethridge. It was a difficult role but Ethridge handled it with an experienced hand. So vivid was his characterization that we were almost tempted to go on the stage and inspect the bar with close scrutiny.

Edwin Macdonald, of San Francisco, came down especially to play the role of Squire Cribbs, the shady villain. He did splendid work and the more he was hissed by the audience, the more his voice drew out in defiance. Morals were dismissed by Mr. Cribbs with a mere snap of his fingers.

And oh yes, the widowed mother played by Alice Brainard, must not be forgotten. Miss Brainard who has for years been connected with the Berkeley Playhouse is an experienced actress and her work stood out in the production. Miss Brainard revived this play several years ago and presented it in Berkeley.

Ruth Marion Poor brought honors upon herself as an actress in the role of a budding bride—or rather, the wronged mother. And how she was wronged! And as in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," the young mother was starving—a direct result of the evils of the bottle.

Charles McGrath added to the depravity of the drunkard by tending bar. The manner in which McGrath poured out the drinks would cause an experienced bar tender to blush from jealousy over the technique of his competitor. Jack Steward Sr., had the role of the philanthropist, Connie Shuman, created considerable sorrow in the part of the half-witted Agnes while Sally Haller did the role of the starving child.

Others in the cast and who aided materially in the success of the production included Preston Shobe, Fritz Wurtzman, Theron Howard, Dick Sears, Richard Catlett and Kevin Wallace. And neither must Ira Madison Barlow of Pacific Grove be forgotten for his fine oration on the evils of inebriety.

"The Drunkard" was produced and directed by Galt Bell.

So insistent have been the demands for another showing of the Drunkard that it will be repeated on March 18th, 19th, and 20th.

Washington Pageant at School Cheered by Capacity Audience

History repeated itself last week-end when George Washington, in all his majestic glory and colorful background went through many of the important episodes of his life on the Sunset school auditorium stage.

The pageant, written by the youngsters themselves, was typical of a Carmel performance—this despite the fact that the children who participated were not more than twelve years of age. Yet the pageant moved swiftly and won the tremendous applause of a capacity audience.

Historical pageants, particularly when written by amateurs are usually boring and uninteresting. This certainly was not the case with the local performance. Della Lou Fortado and Gregory Illanes played the parts of Diana and Rastus with an occasional touch of humor that brought many laughs from the audience. Ray Hamilton as George Washington did splendidly. Marjory Hastings did fine work in the role of George Washington's mother while Jean Spence took the part of Martha Washington.

The pageant as presented this last week-end was an unusual opportunity for the youngsters to express themselves through dramatic ability and at the same time absorb the many important characteristics of Washington. The pageant itself was written by the youngsters under the supervision of J. R. Gale. Pupils of the eighth grade assisted in research work, music, scenery and stage management.

One of the significant things of the production was the fine pose of the youngsters in the various roles. It is no easy task to produce an affair of this kind with only youngsters in the cast. Yet the results were remarkable.

Considerable credit should be bestowed on J. R. Gale, the instructor and supervisor of the Pageant; Miss Madeline Curry who aided in arranging the music; Mrs. Frances Johnson, Miss Jean Wallace and Ernest Calley, all school instructors who aided materially in the success of the production.

In the large cast, each of whom almost deserves a paragraph alone, were the following girls: Jean Stewart, Patty Ball, Betty Brown, Barbara Briles, Patty Coblenz, Peggy Cranze, Peggy Graham, Rosemary Mora, Alla Osborne, Jewel Relffe, Betty Rae Sutton, Betty Uzzell, Joy Ballam, Jean Crossman, Marie De Amaral, Jean Funchess, Mary Hobson, Jean Hollingsworth, Alice Meckenstock, Martha Millis, Thelma Pressler, Paula Schraaps, Virginia Sharpe and Rosalind Sharpe.

Among the boys were: Harold Cunningham, Louis and Rudolph Holtzhauer, Rubert Kendall, Albert Lockwood, Martin James, Robert Rand, John Sheridan, Joe Stewart, Cole Weston, Gale Anderson, Melvin Baker, Gordon Bain, Stanley Clary, Robert Dalton, Joe De Amaral, Ray Hamilton, Herschell Hanes, Myron Kerner, Philip McDougal, Bernard McMenamin, Hoshito Miyamoto, Wayne Sellards and Harry Turner.

Half of the proceeds taken in at the affair were turned over to the Carmel Employment Commission to aid in hiring people out of work.

Walk Facing Traffic Safety Lesson Urges

Safety in walking on highways or on streets and roads where there are no sidewalks lies in keeping as far as possible to the left, thereby facing approaching traffic. This is the subject of this month's safety poster and lesson distributed by the Public Safety Department of the California State Automobile Association for use in 13,500 classrooms of northern and central California.

The poster depicts a boy and girl, evidently on their way to or from a rural school, walking under an umbrella on the left side of the highway. The umbrella emphasizes the danger they would risk were they walking on the other side of the highway with traffic approaching from the rear. Lesson material provided for the use of teachers gives the following comment on the theme of the poster:

"In walking upon the left-hand side of highways you are able to see all vehicles coming toward you. It is safer because you can step out of danger in time to avoid being struck if the driver does not see you, because of a turn in the road, or a hill, or because his vision has been momentarily attracted to other objects."

ahead than to look back over your shoulder, which you must do in walking upon the right-hand side of highways.

"It is often necessary to walk near the edge of the pavement due to the poor condition of the shoulder along the road. If one were carrying an umbrella and at the same time walking on the right-hand side of the highway, it would be very difficult to look back."

The lesson cites the fact that walking on the right along a highway is not only dangerous but is a misdemeanor under the state law.

The Hasket Derboys were in their cottage on the Point, West Winds, over last week end.

Details of Street Plan as Recommended by Survey

The Carmel street plan, as submitted to the council by George Seideneck and Lee Gottfried, appointed as surveyors and planners, embraces the entire city, and maps each street within the city limits in the scheme of improvement. It calls for the establishment of grades, generally based upon the present contours, grading and a sub base of granite with a hard-top surfacing of a mixture of broken granite and oil or asphalt. The surfaced portion varies in width on different streets, with 16 feet as the usual, although 18 inches at each edge of the surfaced part beyond the top surface will be filled with large broken rock, and rolled to the surface level.

A number of streets are mapped to be closed to automobile travel, but to remain open for pedestrians, and in some cases for use as bridle paths. Such streets may be reopened to automobile traffic by the council if and when needed.

There are two plans for taking care of the section north of Ocean Avenue between San Carlos and Monte Verde, but the surveyors leave decision of selection to the council. One plan opens Lincoln street across the gully at Fourth, the other opens Dolores street.

Footpaths for use of pedestrians are recommended as follows: on the west side of San Carlos from 8th to Santa Lucia, on the east side of Dolores from 8th to Santa Lucia, on the east side of Lincoln from 8th to Santa Lucia, on the east side of Monte Verde from 8th to Santa Lucia, on the east side of Casanova from 4th to Santa Lucia, on the east side of Camino Real from 4th to Santa Lucia, on the east side of Carmelo from 4th to Santa Lucia, on the east side of San Antonio from 2nd to Ocean, on the west side of Monte Verde from 3rd to 6th, on the east side of Lincoln from 2nd to 6th, on the east side of Dolores from 2nd to 6th, on the east side of Junipero from Camino Del Monte to 11th, on the south side of Mountain View from Ocean to Viscaino, on the south side of Santa Lucia from San Carlos to Scenic, on the west side of Scenic from Ocean to Santa Lucia, on the south side of Fourth from Antonio to Monte Verde, on the south side of Ocean from Junipero to Carpenter, on both sides of Ocean from Monte Verde to San Antonio; on the south side of Ocean from San Antonio to Del Mar.

These paths to be four feet wide, slightly winding in the space between property lines, and surfaced roadway, in order to avoid shrubs and trees. To be constructed of four inches of distinguished granite. Edge toward roadway to be lined with granite boulders approximately six inches in diameter, well set into the ground.

The storm water problem, which has been carefully studied by the surveyors for the plan during a stormy winter, with more than the average amount of rainfall, is provided for by surface gutters and a general south and west distribution to the corner of Santa Lucia and Camino Real, where an underground storm sewer would carry the waters to grade, and an open ditch to the river. In a few instances, the spill would be made to natural water courses, care being taken not to increase the amount of water in such courses. Very little water would be conducted to the beach, and this well distributed, so there would be no disfigurement of the beach.

Bridle paths are to be opened on various streets, not surfaced, but located, signed, and sufficiently cleared to provide easy passage.

Property owners of corner lots are to be asked to set back fences and hedges and tall planting for a distance of ten feet to give a clear view of approach at street intersections.

Federal Income Taxpayers

For the convenience of those who are required by law to file federal income tax returns, Deputy Collector A. Cavagnero, of the Internal Revenue Service, will be at The Bank of Carmel on March 1st and 2nd to assist taxpayers in preparing their returns. No charge will be made for this service. The matter of filing your income tax return should be given immediate attention in order to avoid penalty and interest.

Christian Science Churches

"Christ Jesus" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, February 28, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon will include the following from the Bible: "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also, he made the worlds; Who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high; Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows" (Hebr. 1:1-3, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christ. The divine manifestation of God, which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error. Jesus. The highest human corporeal concept of the divine idea, rebuking and destroying error and bringing to light man's immortality." The term Christ Jesus, or Jesus the Christ (to give the full and proper translation of the Greek), may be rendered 'Jesus the anointed,' Jesus the God-crowned or the divinely royal man' as it is said of him in the first chapter of Hebrews:—"Therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows" (pp. 583, 589, 313).

Community Church Musicales

A delightful Musical Evening of varied character is being arranged by T. Harold Grimshaw for presentation on Sunday evening next at the Carmel Community Church. In part, the program will be Lenten, though orchestral and operatic music other than Lenten will be included. Three superb choral numbers from Bach's "St. Matthew's Passion," and a Chorale sung by the Russian choir of the Church of the Metropolitan in Paris will be included; also Borodin tone-poem "In the Steppes of Central Asia," and a newly recorded aria from "Tristan and Isolde." Other music of a lighter character will round out a most pleasing program. Lights go down at 7:45 p.m. promptly. A generous silver offering is desired.

Local Realtor Gets Share in Big Estate

A large share in the estate of Helen Thoburn of New York will go to her brother, James H. Thoburn, Carmel real estate operator, according to word received here this week. The terms of the will filed for probate in the surrogate's court specify that Thoburn will receive one-third of the residue.

Miss Thoburn died early this month leaving an estate valued at "more than $10,000." Another brother in Long Beach and a friend are also named heirs in the will.

Wants Blame Placed on Owners, Not Tenants

The $15,000 damage suit to be filed against the city of Carmel for injuries sustained by Mrs. Ivy Basham when she fell down the stairs of the city hall building may not be valid, according to Campbell who is making an investigation of the case has written to Mrs. Basham's attorney, maintaining that the stairs are not used exclusively for city hall purposes and consequently the city is not liable. He will claim that other offices in the city hall building are rented out to private individuals for their own use and the steps should have been kept in repair by the owner of the structure, rather than by the city.

Notice that suit against Carmel was to be instituted was made to the city council last week by Mrs. Basham's attorneys. Mrs. Basham was injured about two months ago while coming down the stairs of the city hall building.

Through her attorneys, she claims, that a strip of brass was protruding on one of the steps and was directly the cause of her fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Brown of Los Altos motored to Carmel last week end to visit friends.

Captain Charles Bradford Hudson

Many an army or navy man turns painter on retiring, strange as it may seem. Captain Charles Bradford Hudson, Pacific Grove artist, was once in the army. He fought in the Battle of Santiago. Now he has a studio on the Seventeen Mile Drive, close to the surf and near the Pacific Grove Lighthouse.

That he chose this isolated bit of coast for his studio may be due to his maritime heredity. Captain Hudson said that his ancestors were mostly seafaring men. One of his sons is a Lieutenant Commander in the navy and the other has just taken time off from his university course at Stanford for a little browsing about the sea—a run through Panama to New York.

But Captain Hudson's father did not follow the sea. He was a newspaper man. And before becoming a painter Captain Hudson was himself a newspaper writer for the Washington Star, a free lance, as he had no liking for the regular grind of habitual newspaper work.

He was also an illustrator. The scientific drawing of animals appealed to him. He illustrated for Hornaday a series of scientific articles for the St. Nicholas Magazine.

During the years Captain Hudson was writing he published two novels. The first, "The Crimson Conquest"—it is at the Pacific Grove library—was a story of Peru, published by McClurg of Chicago. This became, to his surprise, a best seller. It was mentioned in the Bookman as one of the most popular books at the time. Adventure, in fact or fiction intrigues him. He is enthusiastic about Masfield's "Spanish Main" and has an interesting theory about this author. He said he was convinced that the man Masfield wrote about, one Mansveldt, was doubtless one of the author's own forebears. This would account for the sea in Masfield's blood and also for his knowledge of an interest in old Dutch buccaneers. He called attention to the similarity of the names, Mansveldt and Masfield, both ending in field.

Captain Hudson's second novel was not so successful. He said that it was a mistaken idea. It was a story about David before he became king, when he was a daring hero of bold adventure. "The Royal Outlaw." But people avoided this novel because once they discovered it was about David they were sure they would be preached at. Anyway they knew it was a Sunday School story.

This writer-painter has great faith in the best of our women writers of today. He considers that many masculine writers are inferior to them, one reason being that in many cases these men have been newspaper writers and have acquired the reporter mind and the reporter style. He claims that men can seldom write a love story to please a woman, perhaps because they are a trifle timid about putting themselves on record about it and are not inclined to prod and pry in such matters as much as women.

As a painter, Captain Hudson has a strong antipathy for extremists who distort and mangle anatomy, calling themselves modernists. Their motto being, "Never let your canvas look like a hole in the wall." He described an exhibition in Germany where the canvases were all by lunatic artists in an insane asylum. He was immensely amused at the write-up it had in the papers over the continent. Critics found the work of the lunatics quite superior to that of artists not in such institutions. He deplores the modernism taught in our public schools, the ignoring of good drawing and sound structure, the encouragement of short cuts and tricks. As a pupil of Bourgeois in Paris he learned the value of correct drawing and good color.

Captain Hudson recently showed in Carmel at the Exhibition of Thumb Box Sketches at Grey Gables. He is particularly fond of painting the desert although he finds it hard to determine whether he prefers painting the mountains, graying sea or the land where the granite comes down to meet the desert. He exhibits regularly at Gumps. He said with a smile, "Gumps has sold acres and acres of canvas for me."

Some years ago he painted the back drops for the exhibition of animals at the Academy of Sciences at San Francisco. Whitelaw Reid who was endowing this particular undertaking had asked him to paint them as a personal favor. Most of all Captain Hudson enjoyed doing the out-of-door sketches from which he ultimately painted the back drops.

Art Study at Summer Sessions of University

Teachers and students of art will have an opportunity to study in many phases of their subject during the coming summer months, according to an announcement of the University of California Summer Session which will be held June 23 to August 3.

The department of art on the Berkeley campus has listed among the subjects which it will offer to the 4,000 visitors from various parts of the United States who are expected to attend the Summer Session, freehand drawing, color composition, analysis of form from the Japanese point of view, pictorial composition, introduction to sculptural composition, painting in oil, water color, pastel, Japanese art, and Oriental methods of drawing and painting.

Summer Session bulletins may be obtained by addressing the Dean of the Summer Session, 102 California Hall, Berkeley.

Unique Performance Planned by Gallery

Another unusual and unique performance will be staged tomorrow night at the Denny-Watrous gallery where the Theatre Mechanique comes straight from Hollywood for an exclusive showing.

The Theatre Mechanique which is booked not as a puppet show but as the most unique entertainment of its kind, will present "The King's Romance," a music drama adapted from Tennyson's Idylls of the King. It consists of three acts and seven sets.

A cast of 40 figures are used in this play and over 40 musical compositions from the world's greatest masters. The dialogue is synchronized and is given by a cast of voices from the Pasadena Community playhouse.

Theatre Mechanique which was created by Ellsworth Martin played for more than 16 weeks in Hollywood. It is now on tour of the Pacific coast, playing at all the important art and educational centers. According to advance notices, it is not a puppet show but a complete theatrical production in miniature.

It will play here only Saturday night, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Bier Artist Guest of Abas String Quartet

Alan Bier, who makes Carmel his summer home, was guest artist of the Abas String Quartet last Tuesday evening at its concert in San Francisco. He took part in the performance of Mozart's G Minor Piano Quartet. The Abas group also presented the C Minor String Quartet of Brahms, Speaight's "The Lonely Shepherd," and Bridge's folk song setting, "Cherry Ripe."

Alan Bier has been for some years one of the most distinguished pianists in the bay region, and has recently returned to the public platform after a period of retirement.

New Primitive Areas In National Forests

Two new primitive areas in the national forests of California have just been created by S. B. Show, U. S. regional forester. These are the Devil Canyon-Bear Canyon primitive area embracing 56 square miles and including the entire drainage basins of Devil, Bear and Chileno Canyons in the Angeles National Forest; and the San Rafael primitive area of 117 square miles located on the main crest of the San Rafael range in the Santa Barbara National Forest. The Devil Canyon-Bear Canyon area covers the mountainous country in the vicinity of Mt. Islip, with elevations reaching over 8,000 feet. The San Rafael area includes Bald Mountain and Big Pine Mountain which reach over 6,800 feet elevation.

Both of these areas are accessible only by trail and, according to Forest Service policy, will be allowed except those necessary preserved in their present wild state. No roads will be constructed of the national forests by the Forest Service.

THE VILLAGE NEWS-REEL

Miss Ella Kellogg has returned to her home on Casanova Street after visiting her brother, Mr. Lee Kellogg in Palo Alto for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Gibbs of Hibbin, Minnesota, were guests in Carmel for a few days last week. Hibbin is the location of enormous iron mines and Mr. Gibbs was visiting the Pacific coast directors of these mines.

An evening of cards was enjoyed by the members of the Carmel Wimodausis club and their friends last Thursday evening. The affair was given for the purpose of raising money to install a gas heater in the club rooms. Those winning favors for high scores were Mrs. Fred Leidig, Miss Emilie Walters, J. Fraser Hancock and Thomas Douglass.

Mrs. Clara Darling is spending several days in Carmel. She and her late husband owned property and made their home here for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. William Brown of East Aurora, N.Y., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clement at their home in Carmel Highlands. Many social affairs were given in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tutt of Oakland have recently settled in Carmel. They bought a home on San Antonio and last weekend had as their guests Dr. Lillian Bolde-mann and Miss Emma Bolde-mann and Miss M. F. Koppitz of San Francisco.

Mrs. Mabel Grey Young and Mrs. James Cooke motored to San Francisco last week. While there they attended the Russian Cossack Choir Concert and also heard the Tito Schipa Recital. They came back thoroughly enthused, hoping that Carmel would some day have a chance to hear them at home.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilson Davidson entertained a few of their friends last Friday evening at their home in Carmel Woods. Bridge was played at four tables.

Mrs. Harry Stephens was hostess on Friday noon when she entertained eight friends at a Bridge Luncheon at her home on Camino Real.

Last week was a busy one at Highlands Inn, what with reopening the Big Lodge and with the long weekend holidays. Guests by the scores registered from San Francisco, Oakland and San Mateo. From the southern part of the state folks from San Diego, Santa Maria, Pasadena and Los Angeles flocked in for the vacation days. Mr. and Mrs. George Wooster of Vancouver B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Rice of New York City; and Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Condon of Honolulu were also guests of this hospitable Hotel.

Mrs. A. T. Hyde is giving a series of entertainments in honor of Mr. Hyde's sisters, Mrs. Ruth Purviance and Mrs. Mary Lewis. Last week guests came to a bridge tea at which thirty were present. This week Mrs. Hyde gave a beach supper to a number of her friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Burt celebrated the thirteenth anniversary of their marriage, last Monday, with a party at their hospitable home on North Camino Real. The guests gathered early in the evening for a delicious buffet supper and then played bridge until the late hours. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Heathorne, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. J. Abernethy, Margaret Boyle, Daisy Bosstick, Elliot Durham, and Mrs. A. T. Hyde.

Holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chapel Judson were Mrs. Flora Richardson and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Richardson.

The J. M. Wrightsons and their friends, the Edwin Whites, all of Fresno, spent the holidays in Carmel. Mr. Wrightson's new home on Carmelo is about finished.

Mrs. H. Dascomb arrived at Pine Inn last Tuesday evening, where she will remain for some time. She is the partner and friend of Miss Alice Cann who has been at the Inn the greater part of the winter. The ladies have a most attractive shop and tea barn in Jaffery, New Hampshire.

The County Council of Parent Teacher Associations holds its next meeting at the Monterey Union

High school at 10:30, Tuesday morning, March 1, in the library of the school. The morning will be given over to business, a short musical program and a speaker will entertain in the afternoon.

Each member is asked to bring a basket lunch. Coffee will be served in the cafeteria at 12 o'clock.

Miss Mary Wheldon has returned to her home on San Carlos after spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Manard in their home in San Jose.

Miss Jane Lawler, who is now attending Stanford University, spent the holiday with her mother, Mrs. Clara Smith Lawler, in her home on Lincoln street.

Miss Margaret Reynolds has returned to Berkeley where she is attending the University of California after spending Washington's Birthday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman T. Reynolds in their home on San Antonio.

Mrs. Vera MacClung flew to her home in Portland, Oregon, after spending the past several days visiting her sister, Mrs. Gwendolyn Stearns in her home on San Antonio street.

Friends of Miss Ruth Huntington will be glad to know that she has recovered sufficiently from an operation to leave the Carmel hospital and is now visiting Miss Emma Pitkin in her home at the Highlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardener of Palo Alto opened their cottage on Santa Lucia for the week end holidays. They had as their guest Mrs. Gardener's mother, Mrs. Monteagle of San Francisco.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pattison of Portland, Oregon was a recent guest at the home of Mrs. Mary C. Chapin. Mrs. Pattison is the widow of the late James R. Pattison, a retired business man of Portland. Fifty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Pattison, then a newly married couple, spent their honeymoon in Carmel and Monterey. Mrs. Pattison is a sister in law of Mrs. Chapin and aunt of Mrs. Flora M. Briggs.

Harry Lachmund has returned to his home in Portland, Oregon after a year's stay in Carmel. Part of the time was spent with his mother Mrs. Mabel Grey Young.

There was a meeting last Thursday of the Alliance Francaise at the home of Mrs. H. J. Morse in Hatton Fields. Readings and recitations in french were given by Mme. Pirenne and Mrs. George Vye. Plans were discussed for increasing the membership and there was some talk of an Alliance Francaise Ball to be given after Easter.

A special service was held on February 22, in commemoration of George Washington, in the edifice of the First Church of Christ, Scientist. "Love for God and Man, the Universal Ideal" was explained as essential to unselfish service and true self government. The establishment of international unity with the abolition of war would lead to universal spiritual freedom. The spiritual qualities of Washington were given due appreciation.

Among the interesting affairs connected with the local observance of the Washington bicentennial was the Sunday evening joint service of the Carmel Community and All Saints churches. Patriotic songs, addresses by the Reverend Austin B. Chinn and Mr. G. Gale and a violin solo by Mrs. Floyd Harber accompanied on the organ by the Reverend T. Harold Grimshaw rounded out a very pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Fleet of Palo Alto have been visiting friends in Carmel for several days.

COLLIDES WITH HARD TIMES

There is no doubt but that a considerable part of the residents of Carmel is opposed to going forward with the plan for street building as proposed by the Committee of Seven at this time. It doesn't matter whether or not this is a majority of the people, so long as there is truth in the statement frequently made that such a special assessment would be confiscatory for some of our property owners. Nobody is desirous of making the burden of taxes overwhelming for anyone in a time when conditions are hard.

On the other hand, if it were possible to place a large public improvement such as is proposed into the hands of local men who need work now, the conditions feared by opponents of the plan would be more than offset by the impetus to general business that the wage schedule would give. Were a couple of hundred thousand dollars to be turned loose in Carmel during the next six months or so, business would right itself. The fear is that the benefits of the work would go to outsiders, and that no clause in a contract could be made effective to hold the work for local people.

Why not do the work ourselves, gradually, under direction of our street department? Such machinery as would be required apart from what we have, might be borrowed from the county, or perhaps hired from contractors not now using it. Assessments could be levied upon property owners as each street was taken up, and the cost kept down to the minimum. There is a legal way of accomplishing this, and it would insure the benefits to local workmen.

The main thing, the plan, has been found practicable, and seems to be generally satisfactory. Opposition is to the expense, with times as they are. Careful thought should be given to find some way to spread the cost over a term of years, and to keep the money spent upon the streets in Carmel. Could this be done, we feel certain that the opposition would vanish.

For this plan establishes a street system in Carmel that will supply its future needs, yet will retain the beauty and simplicity of the village unimpaired. Whether or not the plan goes into immediate effect, the result obtained by the survey will be to reinforce the resistance of the artistic minded to the schemes for straightaway streets of concrete from curb to curb. We know that this village can be properly laid to streets, adequately drained of storm waters, and beautifully planted to trees without losing its utilitarian value.

Which is, in itself, enough to cause us to be thankful to the Committee of Seven and to the city council for the effort made to save the village from becoming ordinary. If this plan, this survey with maps, goes only upon record as a way of accomplishment, a means of achievement in future, then it is justified. Some day, if not now, it will give satisfaction and happiness to Carmel's people.

GREET 'EM WITH A SMILE

Taking as an index the number of people who made Carmel their holiday weekend place of enjoyment over Washington's Birthday, Carmel may expect bigger summer crowds than ever in 1932. Undoubtedly the town will be full of visitors through the long summer, and the business concerns will welcome them as never before. Already there has

LOST APRILS

April is coming
With feet buried deep
In jade-green waves
Like the flood tide's sweep.

Melted fire opals
Are in her hair;
Bud and blossom
Everywhere.

One who died young
For years has lain
Where falls the tender
April rain.

Violets are growing
Over her breast,
Among them a veery
Has built her nest.

Oh, that were better
Than acting a part
With lost white Aprils
In the heart!

been felt a pick-up in business as a result of the coming in of outside money.

The Olympic games at Los Angeles will bring to the coast throngs of sport-loving men and women from all parts of the world. A proportion of these tourists will want to see Carmel. A larger group, made up of people who will want to dodge the influx of Olympians, will come here to avoid them. Already there are many inquiries for places to rent for the summer.

Carmel has been hit by the general depression, although mildly in comparison with other towns. There has been a tightening of the money market, the need of more credit, the economies of reduced business returns. There has been some unemployment in the trades. Carmel will look with a kindly eye upon a tourist-crowded summer, which in a year of ordinary conditions would be frowned upon. For the sake of the return of general prosperity to the village which will come with hotels filled, cottages well rented, merchants selling on a cash basis, and new homes building, Carmel hangs out the "Welcome" sign.

CARMEL WATCHES THE FAR EAST

Though far back from the front lines at Shanghai and in Manchuria, Carmel watches the Chinese-Japanese near-war with deep interest. There are many former residents of China living here now, some with direct interests in the war zone. Some have friends and relatives still there and in danger; one we know has a house—or had a house: she still awaits a cablegram telling her its fate—in the French concession of Shanghai.

From those directly interested observers goes up a shout of joy whenever reports indicate gains by the Chinese in the battling. They are "pulling" hard for the yellow man against the brown. They take almost a personal pride in the sturdy stand of the defenders against the better prepared, better armed, better munitioned, and better trained armies of Japan.

Outlawed war has become murder and arson in the East. Making the name of war a term of criminality has not changed the thing itself—except, perhaps, for the worse. At its most disgraceful period, war disavowed attacks upon noncombatant men, women and children. At Shanghai where there is no war, a residence area is the scene of rapine, and unarmed, ununiformed men, women and children are the victims of the assault.

KITE FLYING ENTHUSIASM

Except for the lack of a breeze when wind was greatly needed, the second annual kite flying tournament on Hatton Fields' Mesa was an outstanding success. Even the absence of wind gave pleasure to some, for owners and agents for the property could point with pride to the fact that their subdivision was free from gales, and some kites were put up on the strength of the boasts.

More children were present and participating in the contests than it could possibly be thought Carmel possessed, and parents were everywhere in their way. Anyone who believes that toy-time terminates with adolescence should attend a kite flying tournament. It is quite safe to say that the average age of the happy youngsters was well up the thirties. Like circus excuses, gray hair and bald heads mingled with the children as chaperones and officials of the tourney, and as delighted with the sport as any youngster.

The enthusiasm for this event has grown in the year since the Rev. Willis G. White inaugurated it to such an extent that it is certain to carry on, year after year, as a springtime festival. Plans are being made right now to have it an all-day affair next year, with a picnic luncheon, perhaps a barbecue, on the flying field, so taking advantage of the morning winds, which owners of the property admit do exist.

REGISTER—REGISTER!

With but four days more in which one may register to vote at the city election on April 11, barely half of Carmel's people have qualified. Registration closes Wednesday, March 2, at five o'clock. Unless you have visited the registration office, the Triangle Realty Co. on Dolores street between 7th. and 8th. streets, answered the questions and signed your name before that day and hour, you're as useless as a jelly-fish in determining the councilmen and officials who will govern Carmel in the next two years.

Important? For this village, even the presidential election is less vital than the selection of representatives on the council. They determine what is to happen to our homes. They make or break Carmel.

Every adult American citizen within the city limits lines should cast a ballot on April 11 next. Register today. It takes a few minutes, but may save you a lot of anguish.

People Talked About

Al Clark, the hermit of the Little Sur country died recently in Pacific Grove at the age of 91.

Not long ago, Preston W. Search, noted Carmel educator, now near his eighties, was camping on the river. He was washing his frying pan in the shallows of the stream when along came the hermit.

The hermit, white locks, and a long, flowing beard, stopped and pensively gazed down on the culinary devotions on the part of Prof. Search.

"How old be ye?" he quizzed. "Twenty-six," replied the professor, not looking up.

"I'm thirty-one," ejaculated the old hermit and hobbled on up the canyon.

Age, apparently, is after all a matter of how you feel.

One thing about Philip Codell, the new manager of the Carmel Theatre, he never gets his wires crossed.

That is, he used to be a wireless operator on large passenger and freight steamers that sailed in all sections of the world. He knows his dots and dashes as do few grammarians. For seven years he made his living tapping a wireless key.

His first acquaintance with Carmel was not particularly enjoyable. He was working on the wireless room of the Yale which was on its way to San Francisco from Los Angeles, when the vessel was caught in a terrific storm just off the coast from Carmel.

Water came into the ship from all sections. The railing was washed off and Codell had to open up an umbrella to keep his instruments from getting wet. Off in the distance, he could see the tiny lights of homes close to the water. "Where are we?" Codell asked the mate.

"Right off Carmel," the mate replied. "Ever been there?"

"No," replied Codell.

"Well, if you ever get the chance to go there, don't pass it up," the mate answered.

But Codell's anticipated trip to Carmel did not materialize for some time. After he left active work as a wireless operator, he managed a hotel in San Francisco.

From there, he jumped into the show business and ran several large theatres in San Francisco. About a month ago, one of the officials of the Golden State Theatre circuit called him up on the telephone.

"How would you like to go to Carmel?" he was asked.

"Carmel?" Codell thought for a second. "Say, that'd be great."

Within a week, Codell was in Carmel managing the local moving picture theatre.

Gloria Stuart, wife of the Carmel sculptor, Gordon Newell, is now in the talks, with a long-term contract, according to the Los Angeles Times, who print her picture with the interesting news. Gloria Stuart played here in a number of productions, and was also a writer on a local paper. Says the Times:

"That motion picture producers are 'scouting' amateur theatricals was indicated yesterday when two players recently with Gilmor Brown's Play Box Theater in Pasadena were given contracts by the films. The players are Gloria Stuart, who received a long-term contract, and Onslow B. Stevenson, who was given an optional contract with Universal productions.

"Miss Stuart, a resident of Santa Monica, attended University of California and appeared in several college plays."

In the death of Gen. Walter Scribner Schuyler last week we lost one of the last of those romantic figures of American history, the Indian fighters of the young west. When the country west of the Mississippi river was building out of a wilderness as primitive as the middle of South America or the heart of Africa today, it was policed by small posts of our army. In 1870 there came to one of these posts a second lieutenant, fresh from West Point—a "shave-tail"—young Schuyler, just twenty-one, assigned to the Fifth Cavalry.

As lieutenant and captain, he took part in campaigns against the Indians in Arizona, Wyoming, Colorado and Montana, and was upon the staff of General Crook, famous fighter of Indians, at the time of the Custer massacre in 1876 at the Little Big Horn.

Schuyler was made colonel of the 203rd New York Infantry at the beginning of the Spanish-American war in 1898, and took part in the campaigns in Cuba and Porto Rico. As colonel of the 46th Volunteer Infantry, he served in the Philippine insurrection. Later, when the Russian-Japanese war broke out, he was sent as an observer with the Japanese forces in Manchuria, returning to the United States and to higher military honors in 1905.

When retired in 1913, Schuyler was a brigadier general and commander of the Department of California, with headquarters at San Francisco. For the last forty years of his life he had been interested in gold mining in the state, and was as familiar with that romantic occupation as with his military duties. His was always an active and interesting life, and he was a remarkably fine conversationalist. Carmel loses a great deal in his passing.

Reviewing Robinson Jeffers' "Descent to the Dead" for the New York Herald-Tribune's book section, Babette Deutsch winds up a column of discriminating praise with this paragraph: "The movement of these verses is not widely different from that of Jeffers' previous work. There seem to be fewer run-on lines, but the cadence is the familiar one, and only one poem, and that one the least effective, is rhymed. The images employed are simple and powerful. The mood is sustained throughout, with just sufficient variation to avoid monotony. Neither the form nor the content—if it is possible to divorce these in a work of art at all—will offer surprises to those who have followed this poet's progress. Here is simply a confirmation of his strength. He is one who has looked on life as on death and feared neither, one whose music, more especially in the darkness and confusion of these times, 'beats on the grave mound.'"

Carmel artists were also featured in the January number of California Arts and Architecture. There were photographs of Paul Dougherty and Jo Mora as well as of Armin Hansen and Francis McComas. "Paul Dougherty, N.A. in his studio; a marine painter of international fame." "Jo Mora, sculptor of Western days and ways as caught by the camera of Julian Graham for the Tenth Annual Salon of Photography."

"Another Graham print shows Francis McComas at work on a great decorative map fresco for Hotel Del Monte: he is especially famous for his exquisite water colors."

"Armin Hansen, A.N.A. is a noted painter of sea and ships, and men who follow the sea, and also a notable etcher."

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF MONTEREY

No. 13518
H. L. WILSON, Plaintiff, vs.
WILLIAM THOMAS BASSETT, and also all other persons unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the complaint, adverse to plaintiff's ownership or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto, Defendants.

SUMMONS IN ACTION TO QUIET TITLE
ACTION BROUGHT IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF MONTEREY, AND COMPLAINT FILED IN THE OFFICE OF THE CLERK OF SAID MONTEREY COUNTY.

HUDSON & MARTIN, Attorneys for Plaintiff.
THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA SEND GREETINGS TO: WILLIAM THOMAS BASSETT, and also all other persons unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in the real property described in the complaint, adverse to plaintiff's ownership or any cloud upon plaintiff's title thereto, Defendants.

YOU ARE HEREBY DIRECTED to appear and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Monterey, within ten days after the service upon you of this summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

AND YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that unless you appear and answer as above required the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for any money or damages demanded in the complaint as arising upon contract, or he will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

THE OBJECT of said action is to quiet title of plaintiff to the premises and real estate in the complaint in said action and hereinafter described, and to determine all and every claim, estate, lien or interest therein of the said defendants, and of each of them, that it be declared and adjudged by decree of said court that the defendants, and that each and all of them, have no estate, right, title, claim or interest whatsoever in or to said lands nor in or to any part thereof nor any lien thereon; and that the title of the plaintiff thereto is good and valid, and that the defendants and each and all of them, be forever stopped and debarred by said decree, from asserting any right, title, claim, estate or interest whatsoever, in or to said land and premises, or in or to any part thereof, adverse to plaintiff and for such other relief as to said court shall seem meet and agreeable to equity. The premises and real property affected by said action consists of all that certain lot, piece or parcel of land situate in the County of Monterey, State of California, and is particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at a pine tree marked W standing on the eastern side of the County Road running from the City of Monterey down the coast as the same was located on December 6, 1911, (which said pine tree is distant from a fence post marked M12, North 1° 05' East, 3.58 chains and which fence post is distant North 78° 55' East, 1.52 chains from a point of rocks about 10 feet high on the shore line of the Pacific Ocean) and which point of rocks is North 0° 15' West 4.00 chains from the center of Wild Cat Creek at a point where said Creek intersects the Western boundary line of Rancho San Jose y Sur Chiquito; thence running from said pine tree up a rocky hill North 55° 50' East, 5.32 chains to a pine tree 30" in diameter marked W-1; thence following along a fence the following courses and distances, South 74° 15' East, 2.20 1/2 chains to a fence post marked W-2, South 49° 30' East, 3.08 1/2 chains to a pine tree 14" in diameter marked W-3, South 30 1/2° East, 2.14 chains to a pine tree 36" in diameter marked W-4, South 36° 15' East, 1.46 1/2 chains to a live oak tree 10" in diameter, marked W-5, South 46° 45' East, 0.90 chains to a 2-pronged live oak tree marked W-6, South 23° 10' East, 1.18 chains to a pine tree marked W-7 and South 6° 45' West, 0.83 chains to a pine tree marked W-8 standing near the center of a ravine; thence over a hill, South 50° 20' West 7.99 chains to a point in the center of the Wild Cat Creek (sometimes called Los Gatos Canon) at the Eastern side of the County Bridge, from which point a pine tree 18" in diameter marked B. T. bears South 5° 30' West, 52.27 feet, and a pine tree 18" in diameter bears North 61° West, 39 feet, thence Westerly and Northerly along the eastern line of the said County Road as the same was located on December 6, 1911, to the point of beginning, containing about 8 acres, more or less, and being a portion of the Rancho San Jose y Sur Chiquito.

GIVEN under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of said State of California, in and for the County of Monterey, this 15th day of February, A. D. 1932.

One Correspondent Confesses About Shoes

Once, being far behind in our reading, we decided to catch up, and to read All Quiet on the Western Front as a starter. We tried to sneak into the library as far as the desk, while our shoes played first and second fiddles to the first part of the Anvil Chorus. A murmur of amusement, twenty strong, smote our ears, and behold! twenty heads rose up as one, and forty half-serious eyes were turned upon us.

It was an audience demanding climax. Our few brains whirled as we stood there. Should we go through the window beyond with a hop-skip-and-jump, or should we crawl for the door? We couldn't very nonchalantly remove our shoes. Well, we would just go right up boldly, and ask for our book.

"Eek! Awk! Eek!" we went, and, "Have you all quiet . . ." we began.

A faint upturning of the mouth was evident on each heartless spectator. We couldn't hold up under the strain. We mumbled an excuse or something, and screeched out.

We are starting a habit of dropping into libraries as we pass through strange towns, when the old Hammered Brass Chariot will go that far. So far, we consider the local library best. Be that as it may, we still like to rush madly around in a new forest of books, looking at titles, glancing through magazines, spilling books all over. We must have but little grace in our makeup, for the truth is that we have an ungainly habit of replacing an unshelved book with such determination as to shove ten or twelve other books right out the other side of the shelf. It may be of limited importance to statisticians to know that seven out of eight times we push out three or four letters of the alphabet. That is, a variety of K's and J's, let us say, go through the shelf and dislodge some Q's and maybe some R's. We have not yet compiled figures on the number of hours it takes to replace these books in their proper places, as this depends on whether the jumble is bad or not, and on whether the books land in a dozing reader's lap, or on top of a baby.

Perhaps among the bitterest of our recollections, is the time we did eventually make our way to a library table although we were then, as before, suffering from shoes. We always choose a table apart, and sit alone, sometimes despite the fact that we get a table we don't want to sit at. Why we do this is a mystery. Someone always assumes that we are lonely anyway, and on this particular day it was an elderly lady.

We have no complaint about that. She was quiet, and nice. Although we seldom get shoes that hurt, and we always get soft-toed shoes, yet this pair squeaked as all the rest, were tight at the toes, and iron. We had found an especially pleasurable relief in kicking our heel against the chair-leg, which seemed to loosen the tight toes for one ecstatic moment.

Now we didn't want to bother the lady, so we were suffering and stumped. Twice we ventured just a very light kick, but the elderly lady winced.

The pain finally became unendurable. Finally we let fly and brought our heel against the chair leg, THUD. This time the elderly lady not only winced, but paled faintly and groaned. Our heel had mistaken a human limb for the leg of a chair. Too embarrassed even to apologize, we rose and stalked out—popeyed—shoes a-screech.

Speaking of books and—things —and trusting that our readers stand all about these things, but get the same sort of joys that a pilot did who once took us up and fire was blown out long before cities. . . .

But perhaps we should start out with dinner. Shortly before the lecture we had had a dinner. The host poured some liquor into our coffee, claiming that when we had touched a match to same, and had let it burn, we would have a more palatable and mellow drink.

We do not claim, to understand the lecture, but of our home village—well, one comes so downright lonely in large cities. . . . A vision rose up, of pines and ocean, gulls and dunes. Joyous moisture dimmed our eyes and with gusto we stood up an applauded. The rest we leave to our readers' imaginations. We leave too the warning to stay away from big cities and their pitfalls; away from hosts whose coffee departs in any way from the distilled name liquid of the roasted bean.

Your Local Grocers and Butchers

BECAUSE OF THEIR ASSOCIATIONS, STATE AND NATIONAL, BUY AND SELL AS LOW AS CHAIN STORES. The local shops ask only the privilege of serving you.

New grocery stores and markets coming into this field at this time can only add to the un-employment problem without offering any compensating advantage.

Your Local Grocers and Butchers are home-owners, tax payers, supporters of civic institutions, the drama, concerts, and other local interests. Only so long as their prices and service meet competition — do they request your continued patronage.

Your money spent in a chain store goes out of town to build up other communities at the expense of your own. Carmel needs many things.

Your support of locally owned shops will help pay for them.
